

Human/Nature

*I create fire
Lost in my own desire
Destroying everything in my way
I cannot hear my own voice and what it tries to say
Until faced by a storm
I feel like I'm reborn
I must live with what is to come
Consequence of my actions and what I've done
I am left all alone
I had destroyed my only home
Charred and burnt
Why haven't I learnt
No fuel to add to my fire
My weakness of what I desire
Washed by the rain
Now I feel pain
Everything is clear
What I mostly want is not here
Now I am faced with my deepest fear
I destroyed everything I love
I ask forgiveness from the creator above
And ask to take me instead
Do not have them pay the price I had led
I was blinded by the snow
The harm I created I did not know
The cold numbed me from feeling
Even the gifts of possible healing*

© Chelsea Rogozienski

"We lost our way; Nature was everything to teach us of our Human Nature."